GANNON HOMES

Gannon Homes is one of Ireland's strongest and most astute property developers, building an enviable reputation in the residential, retail and commercial markets.

Founded in 1984 by Gerry Gannon, over the last thirty-six years, the company has grown to become one of Ireland's leading home builders. Despite its huge success, this is still very much a family business, proud to have built thousands of homes for generations of families.

Getting it right means picking great locations with exceptional architecture and spacious interiors combining with the right materials, excellent finishes and an attention to detail that is unmatched.

"Gannon Homes are committed to the communities we create," explains Sarah Gannon, Head of Public Relations. "We engage with local communities all year round by supporting local organisations and by actively participating in local events. We are actively involved in several biodiversity projects and we have provided a number of community centres to local authorities." Gannon Homes have provided communities with parks, playgrounds, playing pitches, clubhouses to include all indoor modern facilities and recreational amenities.

The public sector and the wider public generally is an integral part of the company's culture. "We are not just building homes we are building communities enhancing the lives of many generations," Sarah adds.

Currently, Gannon Homes are completing developments at Millers Glen, located in the beautiful suburb of Swords, comprising of a mix of spacious and modern two, three and four-bedroom homes. Belltree offers a mixture of beautifully finished 3-bedroom homes in the very convenient location of Clongriffin, Dublin 13 while Kinsale Manor, in the picturesque setting of Kinsale, County Cork cannot be beaten for style and location. Gannon Homes are also excited to be preparing for the launch of our new development at Belcamp in Dublin 17, situated on the grounds of the historic Belcamp College off the Malahide Road.

To what does Ms Gannon attribute the success of the family business? "At Gannon's, we believe in integrity, professionalism, innovation, total quality, teamwork, reliability and respect for clients, colleagues and associates. These values have helped create our reputation in the property sector both locally and internationally. This reputation as professional and quality focussed developers drives our motivation for excellence and strengthens our desire to grow, without compromising our services or approach." For the 30+ years of creating beautiful homes in Ireland Gannon Homes are worthy recipients of the Excellence in Business Awards for delivery of Quality Irish Homes.
